@SCALE

FACILITATE THE GAME

The goal of this game is to support the conversation about scaling the product owner role in your organisation. It is best played with a mix of representatives from the Scrum teams and the management team of your organisation, but can also help when only played within a single Scrum team. Scan the QR-code for the full how to play article OR simply follow these steps:

1. As a Scrum Facilitator, put the development team and product owner role card on the floor or wall;
2. Form up to 4 groups and give each group an equal number of activity cards.
3. Ask them to place each activity card under one of the two role cards until all cards are placed;
4. Inspect the increment with the entire group. Ask participants to share what stands out to them and adjust where needed;
5. Now explain that the product owner is scaling from 1 to 3 Scrum teams. Ask participants to discuss what could be moved from the PO towards the development team to deal with the PO's increased workload;
6. Explain that the PO is now becoming responsible for 5 scrum teams and introduce the product team role card (see the full how to play for some important remarks!)
7. Ask participants to discuss which product management activities could move from the product owner to the product team to again release pressure from the PO.
8. Close off by together inspecting this last increment and observe where the group disagrees. These might be your organisation's main points of attention when scaling the product owner role!

Scrum Facilitators is a Dutch-based training organization on a mission to help professionals become awesome Scrum facilitators. A Scrum Facilitator can be a Scrum Master, Product Owner, developer or leader. Great Scrum Facilitators understand the Scrum values & principles and use these to effectively implement Scrum with their teams and organizations.

Scrum Facilitators is a Scrum.org partner. Our classes are accredited, always up-to-date, fun, super interactive and always facilitated by two trainers to maximize your learning objectives. Our trainers are seasoned experts and Scrum.org certified Professional Scrum Trainers with substantial real life experience in various settings.
